Morning Readings: The Transcripts

The Morning Readings of The Transcripts represent a stage in the full public release of this material. Until The Transcripts are published and available to the public, we restrict their dissemination to the Morning Readings. By participating in the Morning Readings, you acknowledge that you are welcome to take notes during the Readings. You also acknowledge that the Morning Readings are recorded and that you do not receive a copy of the recording.

The conversations that ensue during the Morning Readings may be included, in whole or in part, in paraphrases or in direct quotes, in the published versions of The Transcripts. Your name and personal details are not included in the public published versions of The Transcripts. By signing this waiver, you give us permission to include and/or reference excerpts or full accounts of your contribution(s) to the discussions that take place during the Morning Reading in which you participate.

To agree to the terms stated herein, please sign and date this waiver and email it to info@conversationswithspirit.com. Please submit your completed waiver once, upon your first registration to a Morning Reading. If you do not agree to the terms of participation in the Morning Readings, please reconsider your expression of interest in participating in them.
